

PUBLIC LEDGER

MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, JULY 19, 1909.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

FOOLED AGAIN.

There was an old man in Chatham,
Who had whiskers so long he could plat 'em—
But the stony old thing
Tied them up with a string,
So the wind had no chance to blow at 'em.

The Public Ledger, local and long distance Phone No. 10.

All the rooms and cottages at Ruggles Campgrounds belonging to the Association have been taken and there are now only two private cottages to be rented for the coming meeting, which may be had by applying to Mr. L. M. Lane. The Association this year has spent $700 or $800 on improvements on the buildings and the grounds are more beautiful than ever. This year the best meeting ever held is looked for.

NARROW ESCAPE

Prompt Action on the Part of Charles McClanahan Prevents a Tragedy

The venerable Colonel Thomas A. Respass had an exceedingly narrow escape from being run down by a C. and O. Westbound excursion train yesterday morning.

He was standing in the middle of the track in front of the St. Charles Hotel intently watching the passing of an up-river steamboat.

So deeply absorbed was he in the beauties of the panoramic scene presented by river and landscape view that he did not notice the approaching train or heed the shouts of warning.

Had it not have been for the prompt and timely action of young Mr. Charles McClanahan there is scarcely a doubt but that another would have been added to the already long list of those who have met death on the C. and O. tracks within the confines of the city's corporate limits.

STEARNS MURDERERS

Get Life Sentences in Federal Court at Richmond
Saturday

RICHMOND, Ky., July 18th.—The Federal Court Jury trying the Berry Simpson case, he being the alleged leader of the conspiracy at Stearns on Christmas Day which resulted in a fight at that place between miners and Deputy U. S. Marshals, in which one of each were killed, returned a verdict at midnight tonight after being out only a short while.

Berry Simpson, Elisha Slavin and George Stanley were found guilty of murder and sentenced to the Penitentiary for life, while Berry Simpson, his son, Jesse, George Stanley, Elisha and Oliver Slavin were each found guilty of disobeying an injunction. They will be sentenced by Judge Cochran at noon Monday.

Harvey Simpson, the other son, was acquitted.
